Filing Status

If you need assistance choosing a filing status, please wait to speak with the preparer.

_____ Single

Your filing status is single if, on the last day of the year, you are unmarried or legally separated from your spouse under a divorce or separate maintenance decree, and you do not qualify for another filing status. (If under a separation decree, please discuss with the preparer)

_____ Married Filing Jointly

You can choose married filing jointly as your filing status if you are married and both you and your spouse agree to file a joint return. On a joint return, you report your combined income and deduct your combined allowable expenses. You can file a joint return even if one of you had no income or deductions. Once you file a joint return, you cannot choose to file separate returns for that year after the due date of the return.

_____ Married Filing Separately

You can choose married filing separately as your filing status if you are married. This filing status may benefit you if you want to be responsible only for your own tax or if it results in less tax than filing a joint return.

Did your spouse file a tax return for Tax Year 2018 yes no

Did you and your spouse live together at any time during the last six months of 2018 yes no

Your spouse's name _____ Your spouse's SSN _____

If you choose married filing separately as your filing status, the following special rules apply. Because of these special rules, you will usually pay more tax on a separate return than if you used another filing status that you qualify for.

- Your tax rate generally will be higher than it would be on a joint return.
- Your exemption amount for figuring the alternative minimum tax will be half that allowed to a joint return filer.
- You cannot take the credit for child and dependent care expenses in most cases, and the amount that you can exclude from income under an employer's dependent care assistance program is limited to $2,500 (instead of $5,000 if you filed a joint return). If you are legally separated or living apart from your spouse, you may be able to file a separate return and still take the credit. See Joint Return Test in Publication 503, Child and Dependent Care Expenses, for more information.
- You cannot take the earned income credit.
- You cannot take the exclusion or credit for adoption expenses in most cases.
- You cannot take the education credits (the American opportunity credit and lifetime learning credit), the deduction for student loan interest, or the tuition and fees deduction.
- You cannot exclude any interest income from qualified U.S. savings bonds that you used for higher education expenses.
- If you lived with your spouse at any time during the tax year:
 - You cannot claim the credit for the elderly or the disabled, and
 - You will have to include in income more (up to 85%) of any social security or equivalent railroad retirement benefits you received.
- The following credits are reduced at income levels that are half of those for a joint return:
 - The child tax credit, and
 - The retirement savings contributions credit.
- Your capital loss deduction limit is $1,500 (instead of $3,000 if you filed a joint return).
- If your spouse itemizes deductions, you cannot claim the standard deduction. If you can claim the standard deduction, your basic standard deduction is half the amount allowed on a joint return.

_____ Head of Household

You may be able to file as head of household if you meet all the following requirements.

- You are unmarried or "considered unmarried" on the last day of the year.
- You paid more than half the cost of keeping up a home for the year.
- A "qualifying person" lived with you in the home for more than half the year (except for temporary absences, school).

However, if the “qualifying person” is your dependent parent, he or she does not have to live with you. At the end of tax year 2018 were you

_____ Widowed

_____ Legally Separated

_____ Unmarried or Considered unmarried

You are considered unmarried on the last day of the tax year if you meet all the following tests.

- You file a separate return
- You paid more than half the cost of keeping up your home for the tax year.
- Your spouse did not live in your home during the last 6 months of the tax year. Your spouse is considered to live in your home even if he or she is temporarily absent due to special circumstances.
- Your home was the main home of your child, stepchild, or foster child for more than half the year.
- You must be able to claim an exemption for the child. However, you meet this test if you cannot claim the exemption only because the noncustodial parent can claim the child using the rules described later in Children of divorced or separated parents or parents who live apart under Qualifying Child or in Support Test for Children of Divorced or Separated Parents or Parents Who Live Apart under Qualifying Relative.

_____ Married to a Nonresident Alien

_____ You claimed your married child, grandchild, great-grandchild, etc., to include stepchild or adopted child who qualifies as your dependent.

_____ You claimed your married child, grandchild, great-grandchild, etc., adopted child, or stepchild who is not claimed as a dependent, due to your divorce or separation from the other parent who is claiming the child as a dependent

_____ You claimed your foster child who is qualified as your dependent.

_____ You claimed any other relative who is qualified as your dependent.

_____ The household is one you maintained for your parent who can be claimed as your dependent

_____ Qualifying widow(er) with dependent child

What year did your spouse die? _____
